HUNGER MARCHERS INVADE CAPITAL; RELIEF DEMANDED

THREAT TO BLOW UP SENATE AND HOUSE RECEIVED

Capitol And Grounds Under Heavy Guard

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4.—(P)—Admitted into the capitol through a heavy guard of state policemen, a committee representing Illinois Workers Alliance "hunger marchers" today criticized the administration of relief and demanded increased aid from the Illinois legislature.

Barred from the capitol grounds because of an anonymous threatening letter, were several hundred alliance members, whose leaders said they would stay in Springfield until their demands are met.

Elaborate precautions taken to prevent trouble aroused the ire of the "hunger marchers," who claimed responsibility for the rambling, six-page letter threatening to blow up the house and senate chambers during the reconvened second special session.

Heavy details of uniformed troopers guarded the capitol grounds, stopped all persons seeking to enter the state house and kept a close watch inside the building. None was admitted without being identified as having business inside.

After a committee of ten was admitted and half of them permitted to address the house, the unemployed dockmen waited in an effort to compel the governor to sign a bill for relief.

Charles Rossio of Du Quoin, state chairman of the Workers Alliance, said his followers would stay in the city, Springfield officials said about 250 had gathered in a park, consuming a truckload of watermelons while the committee at the capitol denounced the Democratic state and national administrations.

F. W. McCullough of Chicago, Cook county chairman of the I. W. A., told the house that a permanent and adequate job program should be provided. The list of six demands included increased relief, to be administered by a centralized commission and social workers, use of all the sales tax for relief and repeal of the Hickman-Lantz-Finn program for local responsibility.

Rossio threatened that Workers Alliance members would vote Republican because the demonstrators were not permitted in the galleries and were denied permission for a parade.

Late in the afternoon, Rossio's committee was escorted into the executive offices for a lengthy conference with Governor Horner and Executive Secretary Leo M. Lyons, of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who listened to their demands and protests against use of the highway police.

The governor advised the I. W. A. members to return to their homes, saying that agreements are being reached on the relief question and that only perfunctory sessions will be held until next week.

Rossio and McCullough, joining the rest of their followers, said they still intended to spend the night in Springfield.

Horner to Show Texas Illinois Has Big Men, Too

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4.—(P)—When Gov. Horner visits the Texas centennial exposition at Dallas Thursday, he will be accompanied by eight-foot, five-inch Robert Wadlow, of Alton, the tallest youth in the world.

The governor tonight said he had arranged to take young Wadlow and his father on the trip.

"I want to show the people of Texas that we have big men in Illinois," said the governor with a smile.

Mr. Horner is to meet the Wadlows at St. Louis tomorrow evening. He will be in Dallas only on Thursday, for Illinois day services at the centennial.

HORNER AGREES TO SUGGESTED RELIEF CHANGE

Money From General Fund To Be Used

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4.—(P)—Governor Horner this afternoon agreed to the appropriation of an additional $1,000,000 a month from the general revenue fund to relief purposes, providing a constant relief fund of $3,000,000 a month during the rest of the year.

The agreement was made at a conference with House leaders who hailed his proposal as a solution of the relief problem.

In addition, Mr. Horner recommended the legislature provide that relief administrative costs be paid out of the state funds; that a limitation be placed on administrative expenses; that the Hickman-Lantz-Finn program be amended to validate anticipatory warrants on the local levies, and that the 30 cent local levy be altered to a certain percentage of relief costs in each township or locality administering relief.

His plan for raising the relief funds was to use the present $2,000,000 monthly appropriation from the sales tax, $1,400,000 surplus now in the relief fund, $1,500,000 more which will accumulate in the fund between Aug. 1 and Jan. 1, and appropriate $350,000 from the treasury, anticipating an opinion from the Supreme Court which will release to the state that amount paid in by next January as protested utility sales taxes.

"The upshot of his plan," said Finance Director K. L. Ames, Jr., "is that the state is gambling it will win the utility suit. If we lose we will be out the money any way."

Representative Benjamin S. Adams, Chicago Democrat, said he was willing to have his bill appropriating $6,000,000 to the relief fund amended to provide the plan suggested by Mr. Horner.

Mr. Horner said that he believed the law that a county which could get along on less than the 30 cent local relief tax could not get state aid was unfair and suggested that state aid should go to any county raising 40 per cent of its relief load.

The atmosphere of the meeting was entirely different from relief conferences of the last two or three months. Adamowski and the governor shook hands and particularly among the Democrats was there a jovial spirit of friendliness.

The senate met briefly and adjourned until next Tuesday after Senator Harold G. Ward, Chicago Democrat, introduced duplicates of Adamowski's bill. Ward said he was "well satisfied" with the governor's plan and said it amounted to approval of his original plan for use of half the sales tax for relief.

By The Associated Press.

Political leaders of both parties watched early primary returns from Kansas, Missouri and Virginia to-night only a few hours after belated Kentucky returns assured the renomination of Senator M. M. Logan on the Democratic ticket.

In Missouri, Maj. Lloyd C. Stark, backed by the Pendegast Democratic organization, took a long lead over William Hirth in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

On the Republican ballot Jesse W. Barrett of St. Louis assumed an overwhelming lead over two opponents. Senator Arthur Capper, a Kansas Republican, seeking a fourth term, jumped into the forefront. In the Democratic senatorial contest, Omer Ketchum of Topeka topped a field of four.

Father Interrupts Inquest; Insists Son Was Murdered

Body Of Interne Found At Wheel Of Wrecked Car

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(P)—A special investigation of the death of Dr. John L. Bielski, 28, was begun by police and the coroner's office tonight, after the doctor's father, Bazy Bielski, interrupted an inquest with the assertion his son was murdered.

The body of Dr. Bielski, a graduate of the University of Illinois and an interne at St. Mary's of Nazareth hospital, was found early yesterday, crushed behind the steering wheel of his automobile in suburban Forest View.

Police Chief William Maloy of the suburb said the wheel marks indicated the car had been driven off a dead end road and into a gully at a high rate of speed, jumping a two foot ditch.

Only a brief family history of the victim was taken at the inquest before his father stopped the proceedings by shouting: "Somebody killed him. He didn't go there by himself. I want it investigated."

Authorities admitted there were several unusual angles to the case. Lieut. Frank Veselka of the county highway police requested a continuance until Aug. 18 to give him an opportunity to look into them.

Alton R. R. Employee Retires On Pension In Greene County

Michael Allen Completes 40 Years Of Service; News Notes

Carrollton, Ill., Aug. 4.—Michael Allen, a boiler maker helper, and one of the Alton R. R. oldest employees, in point of service, at Roadhouse, retired on a pension last week, after 40 years continuous service with the road. Mr. Allen has witnessed many revolutions in railroad and in locomotive building in these forty years.

When he first entered the Alton's service the locomotives were midgeets compared with those of today. Ten cars was considered a large size train, the airbrake was not yet perfected, brakes being set by hand, from the top of each car, the link and pin couplings was still common, and it was almost the rule for every brakeman or switchman to have from one to ten fingers gone from his hands.

He has seen the monster mogul engines drawing trains from 70 to 100 loaded cars, replace those dwarfs, he has also viewed the new stream-lined trains being whipped over the rails at a speed of from 60 to 100 miles an hour, and also the use of gasoline or electric motive power replacing the steam driven engine on whose boilers Mike spent four decades of the best years of life.

Neil and Margaret Simmonds left here Sunday, via bus for Boulder, Colo., for a visit with their father, Earl Simmonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Logan of Peoria spent the week-end here. Mrs. Logan has resigned her position as teacher of the Pacific Union School, and has been employed to teach near here. Mrs. Harry Hoots has been employed to teach at Pacific Union.

Mrs. Etta Montgomery of Springfield was a guest the past week at the home of her brother Elton E. Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bishop, Miss Helen Bishop and Don Pointer spent the week-end in Springfield at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jule Hubbard. Miss Uarta Hubbard accompanied them here on the return trip and will spend several days here.

HINT LEWIS MAY HAVE MONTH TO COME TO TERMS

Dissolution Of Union Drive Is One Of Demands

Washington, Aug. 4.—(P)—The American Federation of Labor's executive council was said in usually well-informed quarters tonight to have decided informally to give John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and his allies 30 more days to come to terms.

Unless they took that course, it was said, the 10 unions affiliated with Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization would be suspended automatically.

Barring a change of mind overnight by a majority of the council members, it was said William Green, A. F. of L. president, would announce this decision tomorrow—probably before noon.

The terms the council would propose to the Lewis group, it was said, would include dissolution of the Committee for Industrial Organization, set up last fall with the avowed purpose of bringing all the workers in each big industry into one big union.

Nearly all the council members represent craft unions. They contend that there is a place in the Federation for industrial unions but that highly skilled workers should belong to the union of their craft, whether they work in a small-town auto repair shop or a huge steel mill.

The activities of the Lewis committee, representing about one-third of the Federation's membership, led John P. Frey, president of the Federation's Metal Trades Department, to file charges of "insurrection" and "rebellion" against 12 unions whose officers are committee members.

The council started its trial of the 12 unions yesterday, with the defendants absent. They contended the Council lacked jurisdiction. Two unions—the International Typographers and the Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers—notified Green they had not affiliated with the committee even though union officers were members.

Green said today these unions, then, were not to be classed with the other ten in the committee.

The anniversary program at Camp Jacksonville, CCC, Tuesday evening attracted more than 1,500 citizens from Jacksonville and surrounding towns. The banquet at 5 o'clock for the members of the company was thoroughly enjoyed by the enrollees and supervisory personnel.

Following the impressive retreat ceremonies at 8:30 o'clock with General Strongman, director of the Jacksonville State Hospital band, as bugler, the camp was opened to the public for participation in events that followed.

Lieut. T. J. Jacinski presented Mayor Fletcher J. Blackburn, who in a few well chosen words extended greetings to the officers and enrollees of the camp personnel from the city of Jacksonville, congratulating the officers for the splendid manner in which they had conducted their work and the enrollees for their fine conduct and honesty.

Capt. O. J. Sheehy, commanding officer, responded expressing his appreciation for the fine attendance and the reception given the camp.

Capt. Sheehy then introduced Capt. J. Emmett Wilson, sub-district commander of the district. Fred Darr was presented by Lieut. Jacinski as chairman of the program for the remainder of the evening. The entertainment and professional vaudeville performance was thoroughly enjoyed by the vast audience present.

INTERNATIONAL CONFLICT BETWEEN FASCISM AND COMMUNISM FELT NEAR

SPANISH GOV'T CLAIMS VICTORY IN BIG BATTLE

Rebel Stronghold Near Madrid Falls To Leftists

Madrid, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Spanish government ran up a flag of victory tonight in a terrific battle at Lato De Leon Pass in the Guadarrama mountain stronghold defending Madrid.

Gen. Riquelme, who led the offensive along the entire front in what many believe may be the decisive thrust in Spain's bloody civil war, was backed with an army of workers.

A division under Gen. Mangada, after recapturing San Rafael in an artillery and infantry action which was reported to have left the little township little more than a pile of debris, succeeded in isolating the rebel garrison holding Alto De Leon.

Rebels were unaware of his approach on the northern fringe of the mountain range and stormed down the Madrid side of the pass to raid Gen. Riquelme's headquarters in the town of Guadarrama.

Bullets from rebel guns were said actually to have penetrated Gen. Riquelme's cottage headquarters. While the General was taking coffee a bullet smashed the cup.

Their attack repulsed, the rebels withdrew to find Gen. Mangada had cut off their retreat.

Combined Loyalist forces were confident of annihilating the rebels in an enclosing operation which raged on the mountainside.

Burning woods set aflame by shell-fire hampered movements of both sides.

While the critical engagement was fought in the Guadarramas, throughout most of Spain thousands of troops were marching against each other.

There was conflict in the Balearic Islands and in the Spanish Moroccan cities where the revolt started 18 days ago.

Loyalists forced the fighting in the Guadarramas outside Madrid, and nearly 400 were listed dead.

Madrid and a military directorate were the Fascist goals. Rebel defeat everywhere was the Loyalist objective. Wherever opposing forces met, vicious battle ensued.

Spanish Situation In Summary Form

400 Dead in fierce Guadarrama battle outside Madrid. German warships appear in Ceuta, Morocco. Officers reported to have visited Gen. Francisco Franco, rebel chieftain.

France spurs efforts to obtain neutrality guarantees, fearing European war. Rebels-Loyalists mass troops in both north and south for San Sebastian and Seville encounters.

Loyalist troops dispatched to Palma in Balearic Islands. Two rebel seaplanes shot down in Gibraltar battle.

President Rules PWA Projects Must Use Relief Labor

Washington, Aug. 4.—(P)—Secretary Ickes said today President Roosevelt had ruled public works projects under the new $450,000,000 PWA program must use relief labor exclusively, but he expressed hope the chief executive would modify that order.

Allotment of the entire fund would be "very problematical" under this rule, the PWA administrator said, adding that some states and areas would not participate.

President Roosevelt said before he left Washington that he hoped to put many relief workers on PWA projects by giving those precedence which would employ the most workers from relief rolls.

Eleven states failed to receive any allotments out of the first list approved on July 28. The PWA administrator said that although he had selected the projects "without reference to whether or not there was 100 per cent relief labor to do the work," the president had rejected those not conforming to this rule.

Disclosing that he had discussed the situation with Senator Clark (D-Mo.), who was not "encouraged" over Missouri's chances of new projects, Ickes said "we are still combining the list to see if there are some other projects" with sufficient relief labor available.

In addition to Missouri other states not included in the $22,000,000 list approved to date were: Delaware, Kentucky, Maine, Michigan, Nebraska, New Mexico, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia and Wyoming.

FRANCE RUSHES WAR PLANES TO SOUTH FRONTIER

Britain "Fully Shares" French Fears Of War

Paris, Aug. 4.—(P)—France tonight rushed six war planes to her southern border—a warning she may deliver supplies to Spain unless European powers heed her plea for neutrality to stave off widespread war.

Fear international conflict might rise from the Spanish civil war mounted rapidly with reports that two German warships dropped anchor today in Ceuta, Spanish Morocco, and that their officers called on rebel commander Francisco Franco.

(The German imperial government in 1911 dispatched a gunboat to the Moroccan port of Agadir, an action interpreted as a threat to French interests there. The incident stirred both France and England and nearly precipitated a major conflict.)

Lefist France saw in this development and the earlier flight of armed Italian planes to Morocco the beginning of a free-for-all race to arm the warring factions, authoritative sources said.

The result, it was felt here, would be quick and drastic—a bitter war to determine whether marxist-socialism or fascist dictatorship would be dominant in the European world.

Only one thing could stave off this danger, the French government contended: speedy acceptance of her proposal that European powers agree to supply neither rebel nor Loyalist Spanish forces with the tools of war.

But, it was asserted strongly, France will not be left behind in the arms race if the neutrality agreement is not effected.

This was explained as the reason for dispatching the six pursuit planes to the south. They took off from Villacoublay for Toulouse, ordered to await instructions there. At a word from Paris they could hop quickly to Madrid.

The planes originally were built for Lithuania but were sold now to have been purchased by the Spanish government. Their presence in the south, it was indicated, was intended as a concrete warning of French determination.

London, Aug. 4.—(P)—Britain's foreign office tonight "fully shared" the French fear of a general European war should other powers throw their might to either rebellious fascists or the popular front government in Spain.

In some British diplomatic quarters it was said Premier Mussolini might seek concessions from England, France, Belgium and Germany in the proposed five-power Locarno conference in October in return for his word that Italy would not lend aid in the Spanish crisis.

Berlin, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Nazi government tonight declined either to confirm or to deny the reported visit of German naval officers to the Spanish rebel headquarters of Gen. Francisco Franco in Ceuta, Morocco.

That Spain Rebellion

Newspaper readers need only to read the history of Spain during the last few years to appreciate a recent statement made by Attorney Carl E. Robinson.

"The United States is probably the only country in the world where two political parties can gather, select their candidates for Governmental positions, and then return home without bloodshed," the attorney said in telling of the recent Republican national convention.

During the last five years, Spain has had one rebellion after another. There has been blood spilled, emitties created among people of the same race, and an amazing amount of monetary loss.

The fact that the United States has been torn by only one revolution in its 160 years of history is a tribute to the form of government under which its people live. Rival political factions, and there have been many of them, do not call out their followers, put muskets on their shoulders and tell them to go and kill, in this country.

Still another statement made by the attorney might be well to keep in mind during the coming months. It was:

"Regardless of which political party is in power, I've found that this country goes right on, making the best it can of the situation of the moment."

An Investment

Jerseyville and Jersey County have gone animal conscious. Some time ago accounts were given of coveys of quail, flocks of wild turkeys and pheasants that were released there in ideal living and breeding conditions. This was accomplished through the aid of the Department of Conservation.

Last week a lady farmer of the county made the news with details of a "raccoonery" on her farm. She has successfully raised several litters of these animals in their own barnyard quarters.

Now comes the news conservation officials have been so pleased with results of previous experiments that they will release a small colony of beavers in Jersey County following the exhibition at the State Fair in Springfield.

Not so many years ago these animals would not have been safe in their retreats. The public was not, at that time, conscious of the urgency for conservation of typical American wild life as well as its natural resources.

The drought has taught a hard lesson on treatment of forests and cultivation of land. Another generation may insist with a united voice on abiding strictly by its rules.

A land made once more refreshing by forests and streams, and populated with "samples" of the wild life that once roamed at will, is a goal toward which all public spirited conservationists are pressing.

An Old Picture

A local resident recently was speaking of the changes in the city, not readily seen from day to day, but definitely apparent over a period of years.

He recalled the appearance of Central Park when an iron fence surrounded it, and the large fountain now replaced by the memorial statue. Mention was made of the six high beacons, placed at strategic points and lighted at night to guide the world to the Athens of the West.

Other descriptions of business houses and landmarks, long since changed or done away with, sketched a colorful picture of Jacksonville as it used to be.

The word "change" seems to have a rather full meaning in the lives of individuals and cities alike. A retrospect of the business district even three or four years ago reveals a score of improvements.

There is a new store front here, another business in this location, new signs, a coat of paint, the absence of familiar "over the counter" faces, and on Saturday night a new generation painting its own busy picture.

It is oftentimes difficult to become aware of this change that seems to be everywhere. We may not be aware of it, but the metal head on our lead pencil may next year be made by a new process to serve us better. The trousers we affect now in an appropriate style, may next year be out-moded in the sweeping popularity of a new cut.

The business supporting world seems to welcome change. There is strong reason for joining the "parade" rather than adopting the attitude which would cling too long to old traditions and customs.

Few Are Good Drivers

Harvard's Dr. Harry R. De Silva harbors no illusions about the driving ability of American motorists. He has tested too many thousands of them. Dr. De Silva, head of the traffic research bureau at Harvard University, has devised a series of automobile drivers' tests which shake the smugness out of the most cocky chauffeurs. Exceptional is the driver who clicks on all phases of the tests, because, the professor explains, nearly everyone has some driving weakness of which he is not aware. If the fault is serious enough, of course, it ought to bar the individual from driving.

So far, however, the tests have not gone much beyond Dr. De Silva's laboratory. They should be put to practical use by the various communities to help rid the country of its dangerous drivers.

Road District Ten Will Buy Trainload Of Gravel Today

Heavy Bidding Expected for 8,000-ton Order for Road Work

A trainload of gravel, the amount expected to be necessary to surface about seven miles of road, will be purchased by Road District Ten of this county at a letting of contracts to be held today. A large number of bids are expected by the county highway department, which is cooperating with Frank R. Hembrough, commissioner, in letting the contracts.

The gravel, which will fill 40 cars, will be used on the road which leaves the U. S. Route 67 near the Moonlight Tavern, south of the city, and runs south and east to the gravel road east from Woodson. The proposed road will connect with the Woodson road about two miles east of that village.

The road district recently voted a bond issue of $40,000 for the purpose of making the all weather road. Part of the construction work will be done with WPA labor.

Bidders are given the option of delivering the gravel to either Woodson, Clements, or Jacksonville.

Prairie Fire Near White Hall Burns Over Alfalfa Field

Old Landmark Threatened by Blaze; Two Persons Burn Feet on Embers

White Hall—Fire which started along the hard road south of White Hall, Monday afternoon, did considerable damage at the home of the Misses Alice and Ella Tunison, who live alone on the farm. Miss Ella Tunison discovered the fire which made a dense smoke at the north side of the house and was running along the yard fence which was made of wood boards. She called her sister, and after they had attempted to call a neighbor the two women, who are elderly, began the task themselves to put out the fire, by using spades and wet sacks.

In a short time Ennis Tunison, Carl Lorton, Ernest and Henry Roodhouse, neighbors, came by and gave assistance. The wind was in the south and carried the fire away from large two-story house, an old landmark would have been destroyed, for the Tunison homestead has been one of the substantial homes in the county for many years.

The fire ran into an alfalfa field and burned over quite a bit of the alfalfa. Several fence posts also caught on fire.

Burns Feet

Sally Mae, the little 21 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hallett, living east of the city, ran through some embers in the yard at her home Monday evening about five o'clock, and burned the bottoms of both feet up to the ankles with what the doctor who dressed the wounds, called second degree burns.

Mr. Hallett had burned out a stump in the yard last week and thought all of the fire had died out, but evidently some had lain covered with ashes and had not shown up until the child ran into them. She was brought to the office of Dr. W. H. Garrison and a few minutes later Dr. Garrison was called to the home of Richard Henson, on East Ayers street. Mr. Henson had stepped into some hot embers while walking through Bum Hollow in the north city limits and burned one of his feet, practically in the same manner as the little Hallett girl. He also suffered second degree burns. In both instances there was no sign of fire.

Breaks Leg

Mrs. Guy Burrus, living on the corner of Sherman and Railroad street, fell off the porch at her home Monday morning and broke her right leg above the ankle. Dr. Paul Bauer took care of the injury.

Arthur McMahan suffered a fainting spell while down town Saturday afternoon but soon recovered.

Mrs. C. A. Ruckel who fell one evening last week as she was returning home from the picture show, and broke her hip in two places is resting well as can be expected at the White Hall hospital. Her sister, Mrs. George Bovard of Moulton, Iowa, who has been spending the summer in a summer camp in northwestern Minnesota, was in an auto accident near the camp three weeks ago and injured her arm so badly that she has not been able to use it since. However, she is still staying in the camp instead of returning home.

Miss Edna Westerhold came up from St. Louis Saturday for an eight days vacation visit with her mother, Mrs. E. F. Westerhold on the farm south-west of White Hall.

NO FISH? TRY YOUR LUCK ON SNAPPERS

Many Folks Around River Cities Going in for Fried Turtle

Beardstown—These men you see wading in muddy creeks are not attempting to become modern Moses', but they are doing a bit of work which is supplanting the old time fishing industry along this river.

Armed with long poles, with which they prod into the mud, the men walk along the muddy stream banks punching their hook-tipped implements into the bed of the stream until they locate a turtle. They insert the hook under the turtle and lift him out on the bank.

That's just the first step in preparing a delicacy which many people are substituting for fish these fishless days. The turtle meat is cleaned out of the shells and then sold to persons hungry for their "sea-food". The whole operation requires quite a bit of skill.

Once in the housewife's hands, however, the turtle meat becomes a food prized more highly than fine or commercial fish by many people. The customary method of preparing the food for the table is frying, but there are other methods.

Turtles, during these torrid days and days of low water, bury themselves in the mud from three to five inches, and breathe by keeping open a small hole leading to the surface of the stream bed.

Springfield Doctor Meets Many Local People During Trip

Dr. Fred Cowdin Takes Trip To Honolulu; Sees Many College Friends

Dr. Fred Cowdin of Springfield, former resident of Jacksonville, and his daughter, Lucy Cowdin, student at Mills College, California, have returned after a two months' trip to Honolulu and points in the west.

While in Honolulu, Dr. Cowdin met his classmate, E. Tanner Brown, who is now pastor of St. Clements Episcopal church, Honolulu. Dr. Cowdin reports that the Rev. Brown is doing fine work there. He has a family, including two sons and a daughter. "Ned" Brown will be remembered by many in Jacksonville and in Waverly. He is a graduate of Illinois College with the class of 1905 and is a nephew of the late Edward A. Tanner.

In Honolulu, Dr. Cowdin also met Frank Vieira, who for a number of years was a student at Whipple Academy and is now a member of the Honolulu Rotary and his band meets all transcontinental steamships as they land at the Hawaiian capital and gives them a royal Hawaiian salute.

On his return trip to Los Angeles from Hawaii, as they landed at Wilmington pier, near Los Angeles, Dr. Cowdin was immediately recognized by Stuart and Clara Russel, formerly of Jacksonville.

At Berkeley, Calif., Dr. Cowdin met Fred Duckels, a graduate of Illinois College with the class of '05, now engaged in Y.M.C.A. work there.

Dr. Cowdin has returned to his practice in Springfield after two months of much needed rest, visiting places in the west from San Diego to Vancouver.

Hot Weather Brings Sharp Reduction in Automobile Crashes

Only 14 Accidents Reported to Police Department During July

There may be some advantage in having hot weather after all. During the month of July only 14 accidents, only two of which resulted in injuries, were reported to the local police department. June, another warm month, also showed a decline in the number of accidents of sufficient importance to report to the police, when 19 accidents occurred.

Eleven of the fourteen accidents reported were the result of automobiles colliding with each other, one was the result of an auto and bicycle collision, and the other two were collisions with fixed objects.

Further analyzing the accidents in order to determine whether some steps may be taken to eliminate the causes, the police department found that most of the accidents, as usual, occurred during the hours from 5 to 9 p. m. They also found that five of the 14 collisions took place at intersections, and nine not at intersections.

All of the automobiles involved in accidents during the past month were passenger cars, and 20 of the 24 drivers involved were residents of the city. One person involved lived in the immediate vicinity of the city, and the other three were residents of this state.

The age range from 30 to 40 continued to mark up the largest number of accidents. Of the 24 drivers involved, 15 were between these ages, one driver was under 20 years of age, six were between 20 and 29, and two were between 50 and 64. There were 22 men drivers and two women drivers involved.

In the 11 accidents in which 22 machines were involved, three were the result of angle collisions, one was a head-on collision, two were rear-end collisions, two were the result of one machine backing into another, and three accidents were the result of side-swiping.

Sixteen drivers going straight ahead figured in accidents. One driver making a right turn and one making a left turn were in other accidents, three drivers leaving the curb were other victims, two were backing up, and three machines were damaged while parked.

The police report, which is mailed to the National Safety Council, shows that three persons were exceeding the speed limit, two didn't have the right of way, one was cutting in and one was on the wrong side of the road. One driver disregarded a stop sign, another disregarded a signal given by another motorist, three were driving improperly, and ten drivers apparently were abiding by all of the rules and regulations governing traffic when their machines were damaged. One of the machines involved had defective steering mechanism, but other wise, all of the machines were in good working condition, according to the report.

MORGAN DAIRY PUTS NEW BOTTLE WASHER INTO USE AT PLANT

A new, 4600 pound bottle washer was being installed yesterday by the Morgan Dairy Company at their plant on the corner of W. Douglas and N. Sandy streets. The machine, which is fifteen feet long and about four feet wide, is capable of washing and sterilizing 300 milk bottles at a time. It was manufactured by the Creamery Package Manufacturing Company, and is the latest model soaper type.

The full operation of washing one bottle in the machine takes about 18 minutes. The bottle goes first into the soaker, where it remains about 9 minutes, then it is automatically pulled into the rinsing chambers where warm water and later cold water is used to rinse it.

The Morgan Dairy will use this new bottle washer to replace an older type machine.

J. Macy Hollowell Conducts Red Cross Exams; Artificial Respiration Taught

Six Jacksonville young people have successfully passed their examinations for the Senior Red Cross Life Saving award and another local girl has demonstrated that she deserves the Junior Red Cross Life Saving badge.

Gratia Hall won her junior insignia by showing J. Macy Hollowell, the official Red Cross Life Saving examiner of this district, that she not only knew how to swim well but that she also knew how to carry a drowning person to safety.

Hollowell, who is also a life guard at the Nichols Park pool where the tests were conducted, examined and passed Virginia Reynolds, Mary Jeanette Hemphill, Jeanne Rantz, Harry Story and Bill Clark in the Senior Red Cross Life Saving work.

The proper methods of artificial respiration were stressed in the examinations since knowing the right way to induce breathing often means the difference between life and death.

George Gordon was in the city yesterday from Merritt.

RED CROWN'S phenomenal mileage almost won me a wife, confides Caspar Kasper

Caspar explains: "I was in a marrying mood, so I got a widow-woman in my car and told her I wouldn't stop driving until she agreed to marry me. She figured I'd have to stop sum'ers for gas. But I had a full gallon of Red Crown in my tank. We started in Indiana and was still going in Kansas when she gave in and said she'd marry me. But the mood was gone. I'm as whimsical as Red Crown is long winded."

To Caspar Kasper we express: (1) gratitude for introducing love interest into the subject of gasoline; (2) absolute disbelief in his story.

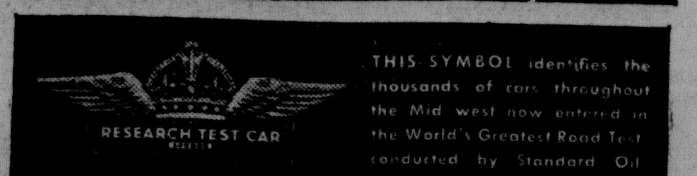

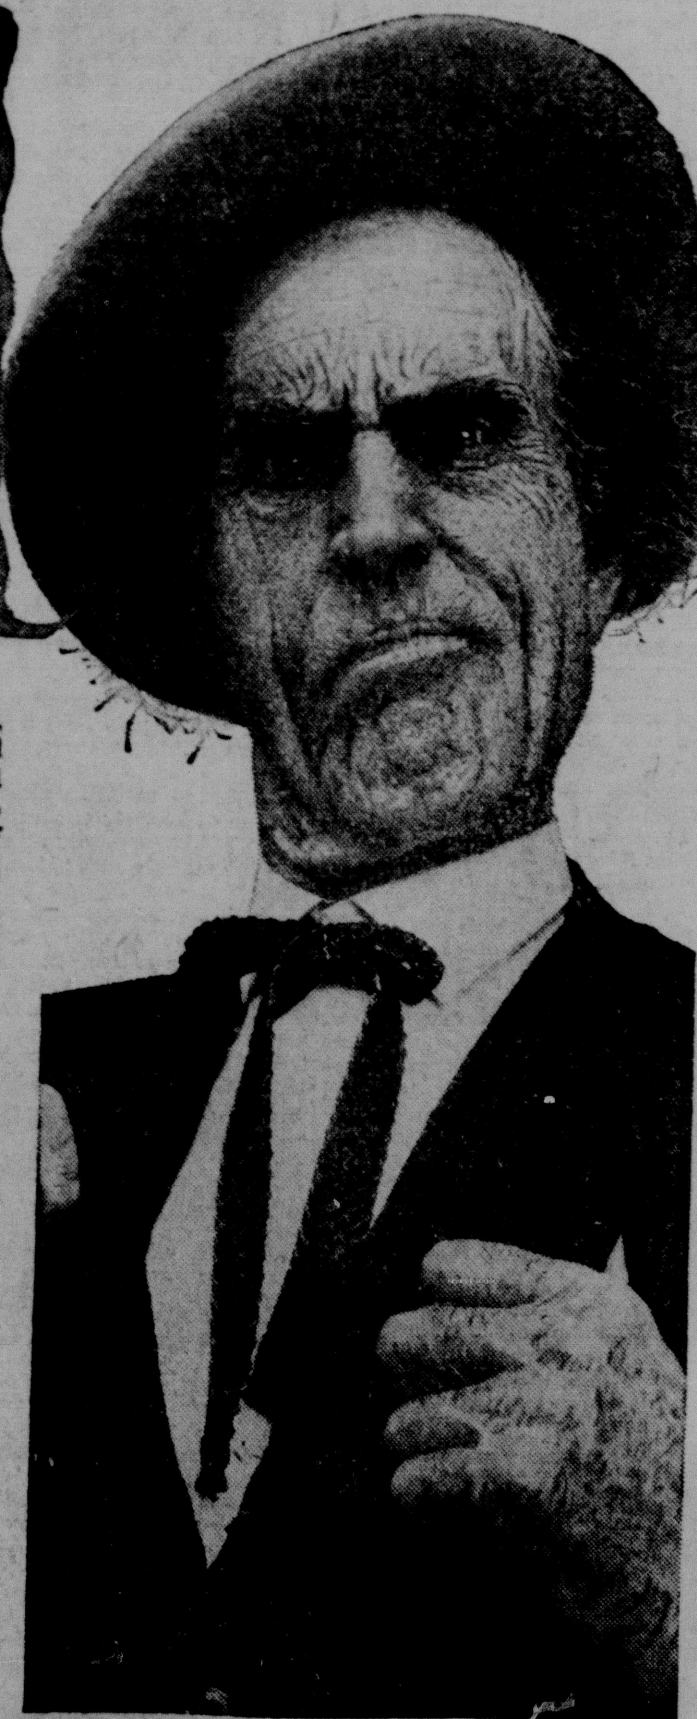

Standard Red Crown is as "long winded," we believe, as any gasoline you can buy. It is quite possible that it gives extra mileage per gallon but Caspar's story stretches the truth further than you can stretch a tankful of gasoline, even Standard Red Crown.

To end all inaccuracies and misconceptions about gasoline mileage, the World's Greatest Road Test continues, with many hundreds of thousands of midwest motorists getting the bedrock facts. ## United States is Winner in 4 Out of 5 Olympic Events; Owens Sets Broad Jump Mark

Berlin, Aug. 4.—(P)—Scaling the heights today to Olympic track and field conquest unknown since pre-war days, the United States today ended all doubt about team supremacy, capturing first places in all three men's events, dividing honors in the two women's contests with Germany and producing the first double winner of the 11th Olympiad in an amazingly unbeatable Jesse Owens.

Ohio State's redoubtable negro shattered Olympic records most every time he made a move in the day-long competition in two events. He twice bettered the 200-meter mark, coasting to 21.1 second victories in the qualifying trials, and then climaxed the day by bettering the broad jump mark five times, winding up with a final leap of 8.06 meters, 26 feet 5 1/4 inches.

This jumping feat, which buried the previous mark of 7.73 meters, 25 feet 4 1/4 inches, made by Edward Hamm in the 1928 games, gave a second gold medal and oak tree to the tan thunderbolt, who is poised to complete a triple triumph in the decisive 200 meter tests tomorrow.

The decisive but non-record breaking victories of Glenn Hardin, Greenwood, Miss., in the 400 meter hurdles and John Hughey Woodruff, Corneliusville, Pa., negro, in the 800-meter run, combined with Owens' latest contribution ended any idea that the point battle for the team title will be close.

Completion of three of eight days of Olympic blue ribbon competition, found the United States totalling 83 points in eight events—more than double Germany's 384 points. The Germans had the satisfaction of pushing Owens to record-jumping flights, but picked up only 74 points while Finland went scoreless and remained in third place with 301 points.

Helen Stephens of Fulton, Mo., sharing the feminine spotlight with Germany's record-breaking discus thrower, Gisela Mauermayer, continued the United States' sprinting sweep. The Missourian beat five rivals decisively, including Poland's defending champion, Stella Walsh, in the 100 meter women's final, bettering the listed world record for the third time. She won the title in 11.5 seconds, one-tenth of a second short of her own best mark in yesterday's trials.

Meanwhile, two mates, Dusky Matthew (Mac) Robinson of Pasadena, Calif., and Bob Packard of Rockford, Ill., University of Georgia freshman, accompanied Owens through the 200-meter trials into the semi-finals.

Farm Share Buying Aids Stock Market

Close Sees Only Limited and Irregular Gains

New York, Aug. 4.—(P)—Last-minute buying of farm shares today spread a mild glow of enthusiasm over the stock market, but the list was able to manage only irregular and limited gains.

Reports from the drought regions that crop deterioration might be checked in some sectors provided a background for the buying of farm implements, brokers said.

Case led the pack, jumping 7 points to 168. International Harvester at 82½ and Deere at 77½ had gains of 1½ and 2½, respectively.

So far as influences on the market's general behavior were concerned, analysts said the picture had about the same hues. There was continued favorable news from the earnings and dividend front; uncertainty over the ultimate economic effects of the drought and heightened anxiety abroad over the Spanish civil war.

Equities faltered at the opening. As trading proceeded buying turned more aggressive, cancelling or reducing early losses in some issues and pushing others onto the upside.

With the exception of late bidding in some aircrafts and the farm stocks, buying lacked punch, however.

Government Buys Drought Cattle

Receipts Fall Off From Monday's Heavy Run

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(P)—The government continued to buy drought cattle today at several corn belt livestock markets although receipts fell off sharply compared with Monday's heavy supplies.

Announcement from Washington said the agricultural adjustment administration had authorized purchase of 2,335 head as part of the general drought relief program. A large volume of cattle and including 225 calves. Purchases were authorized at Chicago, Omaha, Sioux City, St. Paul and Fargo.

Buying of 4,793 head of cutter cows and heifers and calves was ordered yesterday but agents announced only 1,350 were actually taken off the market. M. T. Morgan, in charge of the program here, said future buying program was uncertain for the time being but that the government's policy in making the purchases would be based on market developments and conditions.

Better grade fed steers and yearlings were steady to strong. The market was good and a strong undertone prevailed in cattle selling at $8.50 upward. A large volume was held over from Monday's heavy run but clearance was good today. Replacement cattle were dull, with prices 50 cents to $1 lower than a week ago because of dry weather conditions over the corn belt. The fed steer top was $9.35.

Hogs were mostly steady to 10 cents lower, the market being weakened by an unexpectedly large supply. Spots were even lower, and top sank 5 cents to $11.20.

Sheep ruled steady to firm.

Farm and Rural Interest

Frank DeFrates Sticks to Horse and Buggy; Grasshoppers Are Real Vandals; Hints on Chicken Raising in Hot Weather; How to Prevent Milk Shortage

He Takes the Prize For An Old Buggy and Horse

It's not very often any more that you see a person driving a buggy, but Frank M. DeFrates, who farms north-east of town just wouldn't drive anything else. He's been driving an old rig that was made by the Hall Brothers firm here more than twenty-two years ago. Mr. DeFrates said that he bought it in 1918 from a man who had been using it for four years at the time. In keeping with the old time buggy, he drives a horse that has seen thirty-odd years of service in the harness. They may be slow and old, Mr. DeFrates says, but they always get me where I want to go.

Grasshoppers Prove To Be Obstinate Creatures

C. O. Bayha, local real estate man, reports an interesting thing to us. Bayha says that the grasshoppers in his garden, instead of first eating the leaves, have been gnawing at the stems of his plants, sawing them off even with the ground. It seems that the grasshoppers aren't hungry, they just want to be destructive.

In the farm column last week we printed a formula for an effective poison bait composed of a mixture of bran, oil and paris green. Now we find that the chemical compound, sodium pyro-arsenate can be substituted with equally good results for the paris green. The bait is more effective when applied early in the morning.

Predicts More Hogs But Lighter Weight

More hogs will come to market next fall and winter and prices probably will decline seasonally in the fall months, said the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in a report on hog and pork prospects.

A small corn crop this year probably will lead to some liquidation of sows and spring pigs in the next few months. High priced corn probably will cause farmers to send hogs to market in 1936-37 at much lighter weights than they have averaged this year.

Supply Plenty of Feed Shade, Water For Chickens

Extremely torrid weather always hampers the growth of chicks. Aside from providing shade, and never letting the water fountains run dry, or the feed hopper become empty, there is little to be done but the usual care and management. If feed is neglected, the chicks that are feathered might molt. It seems that no chicken ever loses a chance to molt, whether young or not so young. Then, too, this is the time that parasites take their toll. Lice, mites, intestinal parasites all have a way of doing their worst in August. If the young chickens begin to droop, probably becoming lame and often dying, it is a guess that the flock is infested with worms. Many times what seems to be a disease, could be traced right back to intestinal worms. Finding the round worms is easy. Cut an intestine the long way over a pan of water, pour the water off, and the worms will be found at the bottom. There are good commercial worm eliminators, and the price is not high. I suggest that you worm the young stock twice before they are placed in the laying pens. Once to kill the existing worms, and once for good measure and to get all that hatch later, from the eggs that would not have been destroyed.

Much feed will be required to keep the long, lanky young chickens growing. Once they slump, there can never be the result, that pullets will feed from start to finish will give. Economizing on feed is not economy. It is a bad waste of good materials.

Skilled Dairying Will Prevent Milk Shortage

With prices for whole milk already on the increase in several sections of Illinois because of the drought, intelligent, skillful feeding and sound management of dairy herds will go a long way toward preventing milk shortage, says J. C. Cash, dairy extension specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

"Cows that have access to darkened, clean cool barns or sheds during the heat of the day are more comfortable and less likely to fall off in production as a result of the hot weather," he explained. Since large amounts of water are required each day by high producing cows, they should have plenty of fresh, clean water at all times.

"Giving cows plenty of the right kind of feed at all times is the safest precaution against costly drops in milk yields. Whenever pasture alone fails to keep the cows in good condition and maintain milk flow, additional feed will pay dividends. The amount of grain necessary for cows on pasture varies with the kind of pasture and the rate of production.

"The practice of feeding first cutting alfalfa in a rack to cows on failing pasture has proved satisfactory and economical. If this practice is followed, a smaller amount of grain will be required. In some cases satisfactory results have been obtained by feeding alfalfa and no grain. Silage is also an excellent supplement to failing pastures.

"While a 12 per cent total protein grain mixture is sufficient when cows are on good pasture, a 15 per cent mixture will usually be required for late summer conditions."

Grain Values Drop Twice During Day

Weather Reports Tumble Corn Four Cent Limit

Chicago, Aug. 4.—(P)—Twice in succession, grain values today suffered a major collapse, with corn in the lead smashing 4 cents down, the furthest immediate permissible limit.

Unexpected rains in corn belt areas where drought-stricken crops may yet receive some benefit, especially Iowa, led to the first of two selling stampedes, but in this instance a sharp upturn followed because of a big increase of buying when prices tumbled. Later, however, predictions of continued unsettled weather east of the Mississippi, giving further hope for a check to crop deterioration, was largely the cause of a renewal of rushes to sell and of fresh tumbles in quotations.

Wheat gave way with corn in a market that at times has seldom been surpassed for swift wide price change and activity of trading. Contributing to the acute weakness of values was the fact that at the close yesterday the market was based on December contracts was up 47 cents for corn, 28 cents for wheat, and 19 cents for oats since June 1, a rise that in many quarters was construed as discounting damage for at least the present.

Corn closed nervous, 21-44 cents under yesterday's finish, Sept. 106½-1, Dec. 94½, May 93½, wheat 21-3½ down, Sept. 110½-4, Dec. 111½-3, May 112-112½, oats 11-2½ off, Dec. 80½, and rye showing 11-1½ drop, Dec. 80½. The outcome in provisions was unchanged to 25 cents lower.

Bond Mart Droops

For Second Day

Utilities And Low Priced Rails Decline

New York, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Bond Market leaned to the offside again today in quiet trading feature by declines of a point or more in a group of Utilities and low-priced Rails.

U. S. Governments hovered in a limited range with the trend mixed. Longer term treasuries showed better resistance than others with the majority ending unchanged to 2/32 of a point higher.

The turnover in all bonds of $8,658,000, par value, was around $1,000,000 better than on Monday, but was considerably below the average of recent weeks when the market was in a somewhat aggressive mood. Investment quarters attributed the lack of interest to the mid-summer dullness and the marketing of a new issue of $7,000,000 of Chicago Union Station 3½s.

Derricks Reach Oklahoma Capitol

The march of the oil derricks goes on in Oklahoma City. Several of them, as pictured above, are springing up on state-owned property surrounding the capitol, latest step in the long controversy between city and state. Anxious to preserve the beauty of its capitol grounds, the city had forbidden such drilling, though private operators were permitted to drill nearby. Maintaining that the state should have the benefit of oil it owns, and that companies operating adjoining wells might drain state pools by drilling at an angle, state officials have fought for the right to sink wells on this property.

International B-P Conference Opens

Get Into Public Affairs, is Advice of Speaker; Miss Ryan May Attend

Women representing more than twenty countries were urged to take a more active part in public affairs at the opening session of the International conference of the Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs held in Paris, France beginning last week.

Miss Charlotte Ryan, vice president of the Jacksonville Business and Professional Women's club, who is in Europe, planned to attend a portion of these meetings. If her itinerary could be so arranged, she will attend the conference and report to the local club on her return.

Miss Lena Madesin Phillips of New York City, well known club woman, president of the International Federation, challenged its members to a more definite and fruitful correlation of their activities.

"The organization of womenhood of the world whirled around in a circle of words," Miss Phillips said. "Its members study, discuss, and pass resolutions. They forget their power, both direct and indirect. Even in the countries in which women have suffrage, women follow but rarely lead."

Miss Phillips suggested a three-fold plan whereby the Federation effectiveness might be increased. Her plan entails mapping out the legal discrimination and prejudices against women to be overcome in each country, enlisting the support of other organized groups of both men and women, studying new avenues of gainful employment, particularly suited to women. "Then and not until then will we have peace and prosperity for all classes in all lands."

John Warton was in the city yesterday from Griggsville.

Fair Grounds Takes On New Appearance As Workmen Begin

WPA Project to Be Moved from Under Grandstand to Make Room for Exhibits

The Morgan county fair grounds is rapidly taking on a new and better appearance as crews of workmen directed by A. D. Arnold, the president of the Fair Association, labor to clean up the grounds and paint several of the buildings in preparation for the opening of the fair late in August. The work has just commenced, but already there are noticeable signs of improvement in the looks of the local exposition site.

A number of the fences are being fixed, and work on the race track has been started so that it will be in good shape when the date of the opening of the fair rolls around.

This year under the north end of the grandstand the High school department will be located, and the women's department will be housed in the south end, as it was last summer. The WPA project which has had its quarters under the grandstand, will move its equipment from the fair grounds so that the space may be used for exhibits. It is not definitely known where the WPA project will locate, but it will probably be situated on the I. S. D. property.

RESORT HOTEL

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ANN HAMILTON, pretty young secretary in a large business office, goes to a travel agency to make plans for her two-week vacation.

BILL WARE, travel bureau employee, persuades her to go to Lake Racine, Ill. He is obviously attracted by Ann, but she gives him little thought.

Ann goes to the mountain resort and at first is not particularly happy. She meets RALEIGH SPRING, the head business man, who tells her frankly he is not interested in girls. Ralph introduces Ann to JAIME LAIRD, wealthy playboy. Jaime asks her to go to a dance at the fashionable Majestic Hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER V
WHILE Ann put on her new evening gown—the cardinal's red—the maid was in the room, giving finishing touches to the bed. She helped Ann with the fastenings, and suddenly the girl turned. "Do you know anything about a young man by the name of Jaime Laird?" she asked.

The maid smiled. "Everybody knows him at Lake Racine. You'll find a lot of gossip in the village. He's quite a lady killer, they say. One of those playboys. He spends most of his afternoons at the track."

"Track?" Ann begged. "The horse room—or whatever they call that dark little hole in the village where they bet on the races that take place all over the country. It's rigged up with loud speakers, and it's just like being at the races, they say." The maid smiled. "But it's not legal. You dive in, and dive out. They tell me it's the biggest racket since bootlegging."

Ann recalled some talk at her office in the city about the betting racket, controlled by gangster bosses. They had invaded the summer resorts because men and women on vacation are easy marks; they have time on their hands, and money to spend.

Ann was sorry to learn this about Jaime. "Surely he rides or climbs or does something in the outdoors? If he goes to the betting room in the afternoon, what does he do in the morning?"

The maid said wearily, "He watches the ticker tape in the stock office. He's a rich young man."

Ann was thoughtful when she went down the stairs to meet Jaime. But these doubts vanished when she swept through the lobby in her evening gown, a cloak over her arm, the cynosure of all feminine eyes. Jaime was waiting for her at the door.

ONCE she was seated at his side in the sleek roadster, she felt superbly confident and at ease.

"See here!" he said. "You don't mind a little thing like that, do you?"

She faced him squarely. "No, I don't mind. I'm glad you came right out and told me. You dance divinely."

He stood up. "And I think you are divine in this moonlight. Where has Jaime been hiding you all this time?"

"Hiding me? I only arrived today," Ann said coolly. "But what was it you were telling me about Princeton? You played on the football team—"

"Of course. Don't you remember me?" Lefty asked proudly. "I was the one who ran 60 yards for that touchdown against Yale. That was eight years ago."

"I'm afraid I was rather young then," Ann said, smiling. "I couldn't remember."

"All the girls remember me," Lefty said.

"So?" Ann put in. "All the girls find you irresistible. What a marvelous man!"

"Not at all. But wait—don't go back in."

HE caught her hand and drew her close to him. His kiss brushed her hair as she turned quickly away. Ann heard a soft laugh and, looking around, saw that Jaime was standing there.

"These vacation romances come fast and furious," he said.

"They come fast, but not furious," Ann replied pertly. She had regained her composure.

"Shame on you, Lefty, for that sort of thing," Jaime said. "Ann's my girl. Naughty, Naughty!"

He took her arm, and they moved back toward the dancing salon. When Ann looked back Lefty was still smiling at her. She flushed hotly, and for the first time was a little angry with him. She was angry with herself, too.

"Lefty is all right," Jaime said carelessly, as they started dancing again. "He can't forget that he was a Princeton quarterback. Most football players are simply dumb."

He looked down at her and added, "But our little lamb isn't vexed? Say, wipe that off your pretty face. Come on, let's go to the bar."

"I think I'd rather go back to the hotel," Ann said. "Please."

"Just as you say, duchess!" Jaime's gesture of gallantry was elaborate, his bow sweeping.

"Let's burn up a few of the mountain roads. I've got the speed bug. You won't turn me down if I take you for a little spin in the roadster?"

He was charming, as he stood there, looking down at her. "I'd love to," Ann told him. "This mountain air is bracing."

Jaime called her car.

Diving Attracts Interested Groups At Park Pool Here

Aquatic Acrobats, Novices Provide Splashes That Are Interesting

One of the favorite hot weather pastimes is swimming and one of the favorite swimming pastimes is diving and when there is diving going on there is usually an interested audience. Somehow, diving has a fascinating attraction, whether the diver is an accomplished aquatic acrobat or just a kid out for a splash.

Watchers at the Nichols Park pool have learned to recognize divers as being divided into different classes. In the men's class there is first the "belly-flop" division. This is the term of endearment customarily applied to the leaps from the springboard that end in broadside contact between the like surface of the water. One "belly-flop" has been estimated by this department's statistician to reduce one's dignity and self composure approximately 99 per cent.

Then there is the class known as the "middles" made up of the fellows that are out for a good time and like to dive just for the sport of it. They will enter the water displaying varied anatomical contortions, legs and arms askew, but getting in without flopping and having a swell time.

Then gradually we build up to the real diver who springs high, describes gracefully his dive, and cleaves the water smoothly upon entrance. Somehow, no one has quite the air of nonchalance displayed by these boys. They will climb in a bored manner to the high diving board, take plenty of time to get their balance, then, when sure that every eye is upon them, make a beautiful dive and come up complaining of their poor exhibition. These fellows get all their out of diving.

In the women's class, there are also the "flopsters," the "middles," and the "experts." But the fair sex boasts a class all its own. Let us call them the "folder-uppers." Many young ladies have the devastating habit of tripping sprightly out to the end of the board in promise of an artistic triumph in diving, then, upon reaching point, undergoing a folding up process in the undercarriage and plummeting into the water with all the grace of an indisposed ostrich. The difficulty seems to lie in a weak landing gear that gives way just as the crucial moment arrives. Of course, naturally, this class is very limited.

This analytical discussion of diving has been given in the sincere hope that it will aid Jacksonville diving fans in the enjoyment of that sport. For further information, tear the top off a roll of five dollar bills and send it to the Journal-Courier. No return address is needed.
